

GOAL PLANNING

GameInSights, a game article website that I decided to make because I always like playing video games. It serves to be website where you can check the top 10 indie games that was made by other developers. I really want to make website like this so I can share games that were made by small developers to make them known.

I really like black color, so I made the background to be black. This choice was inspired by game developers because on how well the games were made. So if some people visit this, they will feel the deep feelings that will make the user be connected to games.

I only add 2 buttons because you only need to read some articles in this website.

But I will try to put some more features if I finished this.
